Header Banner Table

The page header holds a three-row shaded table used as a coloured banner.

Row one is a slate bar with the marking; rows two and three are thin spacers whose height comes only from an empty paragraph mark.

Body content should start below the banner, not through it.